

MANNERS MATTER

A Corporate & Social Etiquette Guide for Millennials & Generations Beyond

Paperback, 5.5 x 8.5, 182 pages
ISBN: 979-8-9903909-0-4 (paperback)
Kensington, Nicholson & Cobourne, LLC
(800) 545-5850
First Edition, May 2024
Distribution: Ingram Content Group

Manners Matter: A Corporate & Social Etiquette Guide for Millennials & Generations Beyond is an insightful and practical handbook designed to navigate the complex landscape of modern etiquette. In a world where interpersonal skills and professionalism are paramount, this book provides invaluable guidance tailored for millennials and the generations that follow.

The book delves into the nuances of corporate and social etiquette, addressing the unique challenges and expectations faced by younger individuals entering the professional arena. From mastering business dining etiquette to effectively using technology in a professional setting, this guide offers a comprehensive roadmap to success in both the corporate and social spheres.

Readers will find practical tips on presenting themselves with confidence, building meaningful connections, and excelling in diverse social situations. The importance of respect, courtesy, and adaptability is emphasized, highlighting how these timeless values are key to personal and professional success.

Manners Matter is not just a guide; it's a conversation starter. Through real-world examples, relatable anecdotes, and actionable advice, the book encourages readers to embrace the transformative power of good manners. As an indispensable resource for millennials and future generations, it equips them with the tools needed to navigate the complexities of the modern world with grace, integrity, and professionalism.

Amanita Thomas is a seasoned entrepreneur, author, and consultant specializing in international social and business etiquette, leadership development training, and executive coaching. Trained and certified by the Etiquette and Leadership Institute, she founded Raleigh's House of Etiquette in 2007 and Georgia's House of Etiquette, LLC, in 2020. Through these firms, she delivers the E.D.G.E. (Educate, Deliver, Guide, and Empower) to youth, young adults, and corporate clients, expanding her reach with Obsidian Consulting Group (OCG), LLC. As a member of the John Maxwell Leadership Team®, she focuses on nurturing transformative leaders, particularly entrepreneurs, women, student leaders, and young professionals. With a master's degree from Pfeiffer University and a diverse portfolio of clients, she offers tailored programs designed to meet the specific needs of individuals and organizations. Committed to community service, Amanita volunteers for charities focused on empowering underprivileged communities. She is available for consultation and speaking engagements worldwide.